

Quantum Dots: New and Exciting Coloured Materials—Their Properties and Structures

Paul O'Brien, University of Manchester (UK)

Abstract

The origin of colour in quantum dots will be discussed in simple and more complicated systems. The history of the area will be briefly surveyed as will their potential for technological application.